

MEOW CAT RESCUE & ADOPTION

CELEBRATING 18 YEARS OF RESCUE
AND OVER 20,000 PRECIOUS LIVES SAVED

Holidays 2015

THE SEASON OF KINDNESS

A split second before he threw a load of debris into the construction site dumpster, he thought he heard something. Could it be a kitten? Where? When he peered down into the darkness his head whirled and his heart sank. How could this be?

Dumpster kitten

It had rained hard the day before and the dumpster had about three inches of water in the bottom. There, in one corner, five kittens huddled together, their heads just above the water. When they saw him they all began to mew. The kind man wasted no time climbing into the dumpster and one by one he lifted them to safety, put them into a box, dried and warmed them and gave them food. That night he took them home, where he and his wife searched for a safe solution.

He could hardly believe that someone would have deliberately put a litter of six week old kittens into a construction dumpster. Might they have gotten there in another way? Not likely. When he delivered the little ones to the shelter, the kittens were very thin and quite fearful. It was clear they had lived with a shortage of food, a shortage of human touch, and a shortage of kindness.

On the day they were saved from the icy water in the dumpster, everything changed. These kittens will now enjoy full tummies every day. They will sleep in warm beds every night. They will be snuggled in loving arms and stroked by gentle hands. They will come to understand the meaning of kindness.

THE SEASON OF MIRACLES

This was the note...and this is the kitten.

A woman was walking down the street with her dog when they encountered a box, no different from any other box. When the dog sniffed it with interest the woman's intuition told her to check it out. She lifted the flap and found a note pleading for someone to help this kitten who was being mistreated. A tiny and perfect kitten, left at the mercy of whomever found the box. She scooped up the kitten and box and headed home. A quick trip to the vet confirmed that this kitten was actually in very good health, although covered in fleas and a little on the thin side.

The baby is now in a foster home with other kittens of similar age and doing very well. We are so happy to have her. We have more questions than answers, but are forever thankful for the bravery of the person who knew the kitten deserved better and the kindness of the woman who saved the kitten.

It was nothing short of a miracle that the box was found by the curious dog, whose wise person followed the dog's pleading, and that the kitten was not only alive, but unharmed. She's a tiny miracle.

Tis the Season

PHOTOS WITH SANTA

Commemorate this holiday season and benefit MEOW with a picture of your pet (and you?) with Santa. For a $10 donation you will receive a printed photo on site and a digital image via email. For the safety of everyone, please make sure your pet is restrained (either on a leash or in a carrier). We will be accepting pet food donations for the shelter and our Animals Food Drive which benefits the pets of families in need via Hopelink.

THE SEASON OF UNDERSTANDING

Starting over isn't easy. Ruby and Tanzie had planned to be with their human dad forever. Unfortunately, life had other plans. When he was no longer able to care for them, his good friends understood the girls' importance and ensured that these 10 and 11 year old cats would be safe, no matter how long it might take for each of them to be discovered and adopted.

Tabby Tanzie

There is so much still to do. There is so much time to share and so much love yet to give. Confident and adaptable, these two girls have enjoyed their life together thus far, but each one would be ever so happy to have a person all to herself, or even to share a home with a new feline friend. They seem to understand that their second chance may not be spent with each other.

If you've been afforded a second chance in life you just might relate to Ruby and Tanzie. It's not over. Not by a long shot. It's a new beginning. They're ready. You understand.

With respect and compassion for all animal life, MEOW promotes lifelong relationships between people and companion animals, providing shelter and care for each precious life until adopted into a forever home.

THE SEASON OF GRACE

Grateful Grace

It shouldn't have happened. The young cat shouldn't have been on the busy street, the driver shouldn't have been going too fast to stop, the Good Samaritan shouldn't have had to witness the accident. But there she was, a fluffy brown tabby whose life changed forever that day. Her serious head injuries were obvious and she was slowly slipping away.

The doctors of Seattle Veterinary Specialists' emergency department acted quickly to assess her injuries. Surprisingly, her vital signs were fairly good. However, it was immediately evident that her left eye could not be saved. Her right eye was also blind, but only time would tell whether it too would have to be removed. In addition, her jaw was badly broken. The doctors worked to stabilize her while the staff contacted the microchip company to find her owner.

The woman who owned this cat isn't a bad person. She explained through her tears that her cats really loved going outside, they usually didn't wander far and she wanted them to be happy. She was surprised that her cat was more than a block from home. She was even more surprised at the cost of saving the precious life of the cat she had promised to protect. There would be surgery to remove her left eye. Her jaw would have to be wired shut. She would be on a complicated schedule of several medications due at different intervals, 24 hours a day. The woman's head was spinning. To her credit, the woman searched her soul and realized she was not up to the task of bringing her cat back to health. Instead, she would relinquish her cat to MEOW, and thanks to our Mercy Fund, the cat will get all the care she needs.

No doubt, Grace is lucky to be alive, in spite of her blindness and the long recovery ahead. She is living proof that cats should be indoor only and a reminder that it is our duty to protect them. Now in the care of a well qualified foster home, Grace is being medicated, cuddled and reassured. She is learning about her new world and her new way of navigating in it. This precious one is going to be fine. We've promised.

"Courage is grace under pressure."

THE SEASON OF SURPRISES

The odds were in my favor

In our nearly 19 years we have cared for more than 20,000 cats and kittens, each one unique. We were recently amazed to meet Pumpkin Spice, a beautiful longhair tortoiseshell kitten who takes unique to the next level. Pumpkin Spice happens to be a male.

Cat coat coloring is all about genetics. There are two types of chromosomes - the X and the Y. Most female cats have two X chromosomes in their DNA, and most males are XY. The genes needed to create a tortoiseshell coat are on the X chromosome. Not a problem because males also have an X chromosome. However, female cats have two X chromosomes, and for a tortoiseshell kitten to be born, there must be special genetic markers on both X chromosomes. Very rarely, Mother Nature creates a male tortoiseshell cat, one with XXY chromosomes. In such cats, the two Xs offer the possibility for a tortoiseshell coat, while the Y means the cat will be male. Cats with XXY chromosomes are usually sterile.

This is a very simplified explanation of the mystery of tortie coat colors. What's so amazing about this? The chance of a male kitten being born with a tortie or calico coat is extremely rare. Just how rare is difficult to ascertain. Statistics say approximately 1 in 3000 torties will be male and 1 in 400,000 cats will be male torties. At MEOW, every cat is special, but we think Pumpkin Spice is one in a million. Surprise!

THE SEASON OF COMPASSION

Just "Noodling" around!

In September 2008, at the end of a summer of sagging adoptions, a wobbly black kitten with a condition called Cerebellar Hypoplasia, or CH, was featured on KOMO TV news. The next morning the reporter called MEOW to say that the world seemed to have forgotten about the election, the economic crisis, the hurricanes on the Gulf Coast, everything but Noodle. KOMO's switchboard had been flooded with calls about her. CNN and AP picked up her story. Calls and emails came in from all corners of the US and indeed, the world. Noodle was adopted and later her family adopted a second CH kitten, a tabby boy called Teeter.

Have you ever considered adopting a CH cat? Cats with this disorder clearly have balance issues: they walk with legs widely spaced and feet placed clumsily. They may lean against walls for support. Sitting still, they may appear fairly normal but once focused on a toy, food bowl or friendly hand, "intention tremors" begin, getting more pronounced as concentration becomes more intense. Still, despite the obvious impairment, cats with this condition are happy, able to feed themselves and use a litter box, and are felt to have good life quality.

Noodle's story opened hearts and homes for many special needs and harder to place cats. Senior cats, Feline Leukemia positive kittens, a deaf cat: these and so many more found homes. Now, seven years later, life changes in their family have brought Noodle and Teeter back to the shelter. Today these two middle aged special needs cats are asking for the same kind of compassion created by a wobbly kitten several years ago. Noodle's story paid it forward for those who needed a boost. Now, from their shared suite at the shelter, Noodle and Teeter watch and wait for the reward they so richly deserve and for their next chapter to begin.

"Compassion is the keen awareness of the interdependence of all things."

PUSSYCAT PANTRY HELP STOCK THE SHELTER SHELVES

Today the cats' fondest wish is for canned food, a staple at MEOW. Every day we open dozens of cans. Some of our cats are fed canned food exclusively. It's vital for introducing kittens to the plate, it's a symbol of kindness to our frightened newcomers, it's helpful for cats with finicky appetites or fussy stomachs, it's necessary for those recovering from dental procedures, and it's the best diet for overweight and diabetic cats. If you can donate a case of food, or even a can or two, any brand, any flavor, the cats at the shelter would be ever so grateful. Other items on our Wish List would be much appreciated as well. Thank you.

GIVING TUESDAY ~ DEC 1ST

After you've survived Black Friday, supported your local sellers on Small Business Saturday, got a great on-line deal on Cyber Monday, you could use a day to really make a difference with Giving Tuesday. MEOW will be working to raise $5,000 for our public spay/neuter no-cost voucher program. Since 2011, we have been fortunate to secure $50,000 in grant funds to provide spay/neuter vouchers for more than 2500 pets whose owners needed help to #DoTheRightThing. MEOW has contributed an additional $15,000 to keep the voucher program running between grants. Raising $5,000 on #GivingTuesday will provide another 250 spays and neuters. How many litters will that prevent? We're not exactly sure, but we know this: it's the best gift we can give to #BeTheChange for those 250 cats. Help us provide this critical service to help others #DoTheRightThing. Join us on December 1st for #GivingTuesday and #BeTheChange. An on-line donation link will be available on our website and on our Facebook page.
